What is Screening?
When raw water arrives at a purification station it passes through metal screens. These screens trap large living organisms, sticks, leaves & litter, but allow the water to pass through.